HOSTILE TERRAIN 94

Remembering those who lost their lives on the southern border.

On view Wednesday, April 9, through Friday, May 9

Hostile Terrain 94 is a participatory exhibit composed of more than 4,000 handwritten toe tags, each representing someone who lost their life trying to cross the Sonoran Desert of Arizona between the mid-1990s and 2024. Geolocated on a wall map of the desert showing the exact locations where remains were found, the tags have been prepared by University of Oregon students and volunteers.

Organized by the Undocumented Migration Project. Co-sponsored by the Center for Latino/a and Latin American Studies at the University of Oregon.

Perla Torres stands at the U.S. southern border.

Im/Migrant Solidarity in an Era of Political Exclusion and Border Violence

Thursday, April 17 | 6:00 p.m.

How can we advocate for im/migrant and refugee justice and inclusion? A panel of University of Oregon professors will share their perspectives from research along the U.S. southern border and around the world.

Historias y Recuerdos: Families of the Disappeared

Thursday, May 8 | 6:00 p.m.

Perla Torres explores the consequences of border militarization, efforts to identify the unjust loss of life, and her work to support families in their searches for missing loved ones.

Events are included with regular admission; free for MNCH members and UO ID card holders. Show your Oregon Trail or other EBT card for an admission discount.

MNCH Annual Dinner

FOSSIL FORENSICS

Thursday, April 24 | 5:30 to 8:30 p.m.

A few tickets remain! Join us for an evening of food, drink, and connections to our paleo past.

Identifying a new species from a fossil is surprisingly difficult. Paleontologist and UO alumnus Dr. Meaghan Emery-Wetherell explores how we can confuse ‘weirdness’ for new species in long-dead animals, and how museum collections provide clues to untangle the fossil record.

Buy your tickets by April 5.
