Join OHS and the University of Oregon Museum of Natural and Cultural History (MNCH) for a dynamic, in-person professional development workshop focused on the history of the Chinese diaspora in Oregon. Educators will explore the resistance and resilience of the Chinese community in an interactive session focused on ready-to-use curriculum materials developed by OHS. Participants will also learn about field trip opportunities through MNCH and take a guided tour of the Roots and Resilience—Chinese American Heritage in Oregon exhibition. Breakout sessions will be offered for both elementary and secondary teachers to highlight grade-level appropriate resources. Coffee, light snacks, and lunch will be provided.

The workshop is open to K–12 social studies educators, social studies TOSAs, school administrators, and substitutes in addition to college and university pre-service educators and education professors.

OHS will offer $150 stipends to a limited number of rural educators who register for and attend the entire event. To apply for the stipend, you must be a K–12 educator or TOSA currently teaching at least one social science class in a public or private Oregon school located outside of the Portland metro area, Salem, or Eugene.
